

What is the Project Status App and why should you use it?

The Project Status App delivers an end-to-end solution to fully automate the generation, distribution, and presentation of executive quality project status reports. It helps align every step in the reporting process to ensure high quality data with a consistent format that's easy to access.

What makes project status reporting so challenging?

1. Status reports are critical assets for multiple audiences/recipients

Project Managers, Portfolio and Program Owners, key stakeholders and C-level executives all have their own expectations and preferences on project status reports. Meeting the needs of everyone is your biggest challenge.

2. Not a single purpose report, it's multi-use

Project status reports don't serve a single purpose at a single point in time. Depending on the recipient, the report could be emailed to a key stakeholder, bundled together for a steering committee presentation, or viewed as part of a one off discussion about the project. The purpose of the report varies by audience, business setting, and circumstance.

3. Data, visuals, and styling

The data points needed for a project status report don't come from a single table in the ServiceNow database. They require specific visualizations to provide the ideal interpretation. Our Project Status App helps you generate precise stylized PowerPoint templates that set the bar high for overall layout and aesthetics.

The VividCharts Project Status App provides the visuals, styling, and engagement so that your hard work is more visual and visible. Making your team even more valuable. Here's what it offers to help you meet the needs of every stakeholder and business recipient:
